HELP YOUR PEOPLE STAY SAFE AND HEALTHY.
REDUCE EXPOSURE TO RISK.
KNOW HOW TO RESPOND.

A training solution for a global workforce.

Whether your people are travelling to a modern city or a high-risk destination, they are never far from being affected by a potential medical or security threat.

As an employer, ensuring your people are trained in the practical aspects of travel risk is integral to your Duty of Care. Furthermore, where training is provided, training records should be retained to help you demonstrate your compliance.

To help prepare your business travellers and expatriates, International SOS has developed a range of training programmes that cover personal security tips, real scenarios, decision-making skills and destination-specific awareness.

Our travel risk training is the perfect complement to our Travel Risk Mitigation suite of services, supporting International SOS membership. Our training is available in various formats including: eLearning modules, virtual learning and face-to-face workshops.

Travel safety at your fingertips.

Our eLearning courses support and enhance traditional teaching methods by ensuring your people are kept up-to-date.

Hosted through the International SOS Training Hub, a convenient and fully-integrated platform, our travel risk eLearning:

- Delivers key messages quickly
- Is accessible 24/7, enabling trainees to learn at their own pace, wherever they are
- Records user progression easily, enabling trainees to track newly learnt skills and knowledge while providing you with evidence of preparing your workforce
- Is a more flexible way to train multiple people in different locations and as a result, is more economical
- Helps you achieve your business goals

OUR TRAINING COURSES

Our training leverages 30 years of experience in managing health and travel security risks.

Travel Risk Awareness

Our Travel Risk Awareness eLearning covers the key medical and security risks you may face when travelling and is designed to help your travellers stay safe and healthy.

Women's Security

There are now more women travelling for business than ever before. This eLearning provides useful information on how to mitigate the additional security risks women face when travelling abroad.

Road Safety

Journeys by road particularly increase the risks for travellers. Road accidents are consistently listed in the top five reasons for medical evacuations for business travellers.

Malaria

Malaria is a real risk in over 90 countries across the globe; if diagnosed early, it can be treated more easily. This eLearning will benefit your employees travelling to, or working in, malaria affected areas.

Pandemics & Other Global Health Threats

This eLearning looks at various global health threats such as Ebola, Zika, bird/swine flu and MERS-CoV. It raises awareness about how a pandemic can spread and how to prepare and respond.

Advanced Security Training

For your employees travelling to high and extreme risk locations, there is a greater need for pre-trip advice and training. This eLearning helps raise awareness of the potential issues and provides practical information to help keep your employees safe.

Active Shooter

The likelihood of a random active shooter or terrorist attack is of increasing concern. This eLearning raises an individual's situational awareness and provides guidance on how to identify potential attackers and how best to react if an attack occurs.

Cyber & Security Information eLearning

Business travellers are potentially more vulnerable to cyber and physical information security threats than office based counterparts. Learn how to identify potential cyber and information security threats, and guidance on how business travellers can reduce their exposure to the risk of data theft.
