CHINA // 17 JUNE, 2020

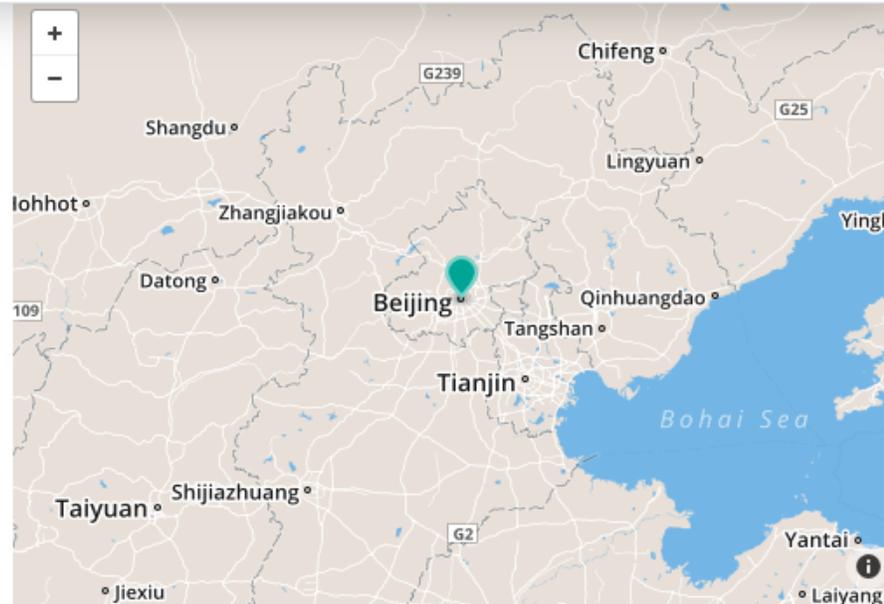

International SOS is monitoring the situation closely.

Update 17 June: Thirty-one new locally acquired cases have been reported, with 3 new suspected and 6 asymptomatic cases. Nineteen of the new cases are in Fengtai district, with the remainder in the districts of Daxing, Dongchen, Haidian and Xicheng.

Update 16 June: The Beijing Municipal Health Commission has reported a further 27 locally acquired infections in Beijing, with three more asymptomatic cases detected. There are now 106 confirmed-cases in this cluster, with another 10 asymptomatic cases. It affects nine districts (Fengtai, Daxing, Haidian, Fangshan, Xicheng, Dongcheng, Chaoyang, Shijingshan and Mentougou). Beijing raised its COVID-19 emergency response from Level 3 to Level 2 today (see announcement in Chinese). The Level 2 restrictions will require people to have temperatures taken, register, and check health codes before entry into communities. Many public places such as libraries, parks, and museums will limit visitor traffic to no more than 30%, and implement time limited reservations. In-person classes at schools and universities have been suspended, and will be moved online.

Update 15 June: The Beijing Municipal Health Commission has reported a further 36 locally acquired cases were confirmed on 14 June. Thirty-four are linked to the Xinfadi Market (see announcement in Chinese).

Update 14 June: There are a total of 77 symptomatic cases confirmed and 46 who do not have symptoms. Two of the 77 are in Liaoning Province. All the cases are in isolation. Contact tracing is underway and extensive
